

Business Process Re-engineering

Enhancing profitability by improving operating efficiency and retaining key customers is an increasingly important corporate objective. Quantact Consulting's methodology allows for rapid reductions in cost by innovative prioritization of processes that deliver competitive advantage and then implementing a comprehensive solution that includes process, structural, strategic and technological improvements. 20%-35% cost reductions have been achieved for clients in less than 8 weeks.

The Need for Transformation

Businesses need to change strategy, processes and roles rapidly, radically and measurably to survive and succeed. Most processes are customer related and involve multiple departments and functions within an organization. The successful integration of new technology and business processes into an organization does not happen automatically upon system implementation. Accepting the change is an even greater challenge. Organizations need to understand their cost structures in detail in order to optimize resources and significantly improve operating efficiencies.

Quantact Consulting assists organizations across the Business Transformation spectrum. Quantact Consulting can help re-engineer processes, develop activity based management systems, manage the change process and align the organization around corporate goals.

Change Management

Quantact Consulting's change management approach involves assessing change readiness of an organization, impact of new technology /processes on performance, preparing a communication program to address all critical stakeholders integrated with the process improvement plan and conducting change workshops to help set expectations and define roles and responsibilities.
